Yes, still need oil as we'll still have to repack.

When you say later date, can you give me an idea of when you want to deliver? We can do as early as next week, but I don't think that works for you. Let me know.

Thanks,
Lorraine

Need a later date if possible.

Late as possible is preferred.

If the 85 is an overpack of a 55 do we need to oil?

Thanks Lorraine.

Up to 85 gal is OK as long as it's covered in oil for us to repackage.

When do you want to deliver? Next week would be fine or do you need a later date?

I have about 45 of the small 30 gallon drums of the metal fines that are ready to go.

I also have about 40 drums of metal fines in old 55 gallon barrels that I had talked to you about a few months back. You mentioned that WTI had said that they would accept the volume of this material in 55 gallon drums. These barrels are in bad shape and will need to be repackaged or over packed. I think an over pack is my first option and repackaging is my second option. Will WTI accept an over pack drum of this material?

On another note; I have an IPA drum that has a date coming up in the second week in Oct. (Possible a milkrun?)
